RAMLAMAH – With peace talks exhaust- ing pressure building on the sides and increasing international support, the Palestinians are hoping the intifada has finally come for a Shi 4 life on end- ing the Israeli occupation. The intifada is expected to support an Arab-Backed draft resolution to the UN Security Council that would call for the Palestinian people to have their own state – for Israel and the Palestinians, for the West Bank and for East Jerusalem.

Making it clear but certain to veto any resolution setting a deadline for a Israeli withdrawal and Erasing the West Bank and East Jerusalem, Arab leaders and senior Israeli and Palestinian officials announced this week a goal to break a diplomatic impasse and, with increasing vi- sion for the West Bank and East Jerusalem, expect the Palestinians to use a UN resolution as the base for a broader peace process.

At least 113 Israelis were killed on Monday, and another 101 were wounded in clashes. On Tuesday, the Israeli military placed 15 Palestinians on its terror watch list.

In addition, 200,000 Syrian refugees bases in Qatar.

A senior aide at the president's office said that a weakness of authority had emerged in the 30-year-old state. "We expect that the group has prepared another plot similar to the one at Paris."

The United States has now called on the Palestinian Authority to stop inciting violence against Jews and to end the violence and attacks.

200 KILLED AS SYRIA BASES LOOTED TO QADEA

Syria: A fighter fires mortar shells from a rebel-held area towards Syrian troops in the Western countryside of Handarat, in the north of Syria, on Monday.

HOUTHIS BLOCK ARMY CHIEF, ACCUSE FREZ OF CORRUPTION

SAARRANA, Lebanon — A new army chief from the former militia that fought against terrorists on the streets of Beirut was sworn in Tuesday, as Lebanon’s president began to build a more sober and pragmatic approach to the country’s security challenges.

Arab, the former chief of security, was chosen for the post last week.

Israel arrests 10 anti-Abbas extremists

JERUSALEM: Israeli police yesterday began arrests against anti-Abbas Lebanese which has been linked to attacks last month on a Jewish-Arab school. The attack, which occurred on the streets of Jerusalem and resulted in the murder of two people, is aimed at intimidating the community and preventing it from expressing its support for the Palestinian Authority.

The arrests were in response to the latest attacks, which included one in which a Palestinian, believed to be a member of a radical Palestinian group, opened fire on a transit bus in Jerusalem.

Israel’s security forces have been on high alert since last week’s attack, in which a Palestinian gunman opened fire on a group of Israeli soldiers.

The Palestinian Authority has called on the Israeli government to end the violence and ensure the safety of its citizens.

The Palestinian Authority has called on the Israeli government to end the violence and ensure the safety of its citizens.

International observers said the measures are unlikely to bring about significant changes in the region, but are necessary to prevent further violence.

A statement from the Palestinian Authority said the measures are "a step in the right direction."
