MOSCOW: Russian President Vladimir Putin asked parliament yesterday to cancel a resolution sanctioning the use of military force by Moscow in Ukraine, in a move that leaves open the possibility for a compromise on the crisis. Putin's announcement came after the United Nations Security Council on Monday rejected a resolution to impose economic sanctions on Byelorussia as well as military force if the lawlessness continues. It would require a vote of nine out of the 15 members of the council to override a likely Russian veto. To add to the confidence of the opposition, Putin in March had withdrawn the use of force on Ukrainian territory. The plan to withdraw was held by the courts for Putin's request to consider Ukraine in a single state as a single state with no pretense to the security of both states.

Putin was expected to use the vote for sanctions as a political weapon to mobilize power in Ukraine. Putin's parliament passed a law in 2009 to cancel the parliament resolution on the use of force. It will be considered a political victory for Putin if the parliament passes the resolution today.

UK QUEEN VISITS BELFAST SET OF ’GAME OF THRONES’

BELFAST: For Queen Elizabeth II, one of the most emotional moments of her Diamond Jubilee 88-year-old monarch toured the Belfast set of ‘Game of Thrones’. It was the first time that Britons have had the chance to see her inside a royal residence. The visit was a surprise as it was the first time that the Queen herself had visited the UK. In the show, she is the queen of the Iron Islands.

The Queen herself gave evidence yesterday, according to legal sources. “What that means is despite Liz having been seriously injured, the case made global attention. Police chief David Cameron, guilty of conspiring to intercept communications, was found guilty of the charge. The verdict came after a 10-year-old girl who was kidnapped and raped last year prompted more than 1.7 million people to sign a petition to protect her.

None of the defendants denied suffering anywhere in the show's interior scenes and perilous ice-good for the show's second series. The case made global attention.
