THURSDAY, MARCH 12, 2015

HEALTH & SCIENCE

ABROVOLGE: Clatching a steel bag of corn in one hand, Mrs. Mary Abrovolve knew she had to protect her small garden from the devastating the ground with the help of the farmers of $24,000 up.

she knew that the little girl with the plastic bag in the village of Berane, southern Madagascar, was in desperate need of help. The drought that year had destroyed the harvest in a country where one in every two children suffers from malnutrition.

"We need support to feed our children," said the deputy WFP representative, "and we are appealing to donors to help rebuild the food stocks. We need support to feed our children." The food agency has launched an appeal to donors to help rebuild the food stocks.

"We need support to feed our children," said the deputy WFP representative, "and we are appealing to donors to help rebuild the food stocks. We need support to feed our children." The food agency has launched an appeal to donors to help rebuild the food stocks.

"We need support to feed our children," said the deputy WFP representative, "and we are appealing to donors to help rebuild the food stocks. We need support to feed our children." The food agency has launched an appeal to donors to help rebuild the food stocks.

"We need support to feed our children," said the deputy WFP representative, "and we are appealing to donors to help rebuild the food stocks. We need support to feed our children." The food agency has launched an appeal to donors to help rebuild the food stocks.

"We need support to feed our children," said the deputy WFP representative, "and we are appealing to donors to help rebuild the food stocks. We need support to feed our children." The food agency has launched an appeal to donors to help rebuild the food stocks.

"We need support to feed our children," said the deputy WFP representative, "and we are appealing to donors to help rebuild the food stocks. We need support to feed our children." The food agency has launched an appeal to donors to help rebuild the food stocks.

"We need support to feed our children," said the deputy WFP representative, "and we are appealing to donors to help rebuild the food stocks. We need support to feed our children." The food agency has launched an appeal to donors to help rebuild the food stocks.

"We need support to feed our children," said the deputy WFP representative, "and we are appealing to donors to help rebuild the food stocks. We need support to feed our children." The food agency has launched an appeal to donors to help rebuild the food stocks.

"We need support to feed our children," said the deputy WFP representative, "and we are appealing to donors to help rebuild the food stocks. We need support to feed our children." The food agency has launched an appeal to donors to help rebuild the food stocks.

"We need support to feed our children," said the deputy WFP representative, "and we are appealing to donors to help rebuild the food stocks. We need support to feed our children." The food agency has launched an appeal to donors to help rebuild the food stocks.

"We need support to feed our children," said the deputy WFP representative, "and we are appealing to donors to help rebuild the food stocks. We need support to feed our children." The food agency has launched an appeal to donors to help rebuild the food stocks.

"We need support to feed our children," said the deputy WFP representative, "and we are appealing to donors to help rebuild the food stocks. We need support to feed our children." The food agency has launched an appeal to donors to help rebuild the food stocks.

"We need support to feed our children," said the deputy WFP representative, "and we are appealing to donors to help rebuild the food stocks. We need support to feed our children." The food agency has launched an appeal to donors to help rebuild the food stocks.

"We need support to feed our children," said the deputy WFP representative, "and we are appealing to donors to help rebuild the food stocks. We need support to feed our children." The food agency has launched an appeal to donors to help rebuild the food stocks.

"We need support to feed our children," said the deputy WFP representative, "and we are appealing to donors to help rebuild the food stocks. We need support to feed our children." The food agency has launched an appeal to donors to help rebuild the food stocks.

"We need support to feed our children," said the deputy WFP representative, "and we are appealing to donors to help rebuild the food stocks. We need support to feed our children." The food agency has launched an appeal to donors to help rebuild the food stocks.

"We need support to feed our children," said the deputy WFP representative, "and we are appealing to donors to help rebuild the food stocks. We need support to feed our children." The food agency has launched an appeal to donors to help rebuild the food stocks.

"We need support to feed our children," said the deputy WFP representative, "and we are appealing to donors to help rebuild the food stocks. We need support to feed our children." The food agency has launched an appeal to donors to help rebuild the food stocks.

"We need support to feed our children," said the deputy WFP representative, "and we are appealing to donors to help rebuild the food stocks. We need support to feed our children." The food agency has launched an appeal to donors to help rebuild the food stocks.

"We need support to feed our children," said the deputy WFP representative, "and we are appealing to donors to help rebuild the food stocks. We need support to feed our children." The food agency has launched an appeal to donors to help rebuild the food stocks.

"We need support to feed our children," said the deputy WFP representative, "and we are appealing to donors to help rebuild the food stocks. We need support to feed our children." The food agency has launched an appeal to donors to help rebuild the food stocks.

"We need support to feed our children," said the deputy WFP representative, "and we are appealing to donors to help rebuild the food stocks. We need support to feed our children." The food agency has launched an appeal to donors to help rebuild the food stocks.

"We need support to feed our children," said the deputy WFP representative, "and we are appealing to donors to help rebuild the food stocks. We need support to feed our children." The food agency has launched an appeal to donors to help rebuild the food stocks.

"We need support to feed our children," said the deputy WFP representative, "and we are appealing to donors to help rebuild the food stocks. We need support to feed our children." The food agency has launched an appeal to donors to help rebuild the food stocks.

"We need support to feed our children," said the deputy WFP representative, "and we are appealing to donors to help rebuild the food stocks. We need support to feed our children." The food agency has launched an appeal to donors to help rebuild the food stocks.

"We need support to feed our children," said the deputy WFP representative, "and we are appealing to donors to help rebuild the food stocks. We need support to feed our children." The food agency has launched an appeal to donors to help rebuild the food stocks.

"We need support to feed our children," said the deputy WFP representative, "and we are appealing to donors to help rebuild the food stocks. We need support to feed our children." The food agency has launched an appeal to donors to help rebuild the food stocks.