KUWAIT TO HOST MEETING OF SYRIAN MAJOR DONORS

KUWAIT: The seventh meeting of Syrian major donors will be held May 2 to follow up humanitarian operations inside and outside Syria, said UN Secretary General’s envoy for humanitarian affairs, Maryam Al-Maatouq. Al-Maatouq, also an advisor in the Amir’s Office, said that the meeting will be held in London on Thursday as part of the refugee crisis that has spread to other countries.

Al-Maatouq said that the meeting will be held in London to support Syrian refugees, of which a sum of $10 billion was pledged. Kuwait, along with the UK, Germany, Norway and the UN co-hosted the conference that brought together leaders from around the globe to raise funds for the help of refugees in their own countries. The conference was held in London last February to support Syrian refugees, during which a sum of $10 billion was pledged.

Al-Maatouq noted that the upcoming meeting will follow up resolutions taken during the fourth Syria Donors Conference, which was held in London last February to support Syrian refugees, during which a sum of $10 billion was pledged. Kuwait, along with the UK, Germany, Norway and the UN co-hosted the conference that brought together leaders from around the globe to raise funds for the help of refugees in their own countries.
