BCG INCULCES 5 GCC COMPANIES IN LIST OF 100 GLOBAL CHALLENGERS

The 2016 BCG Global Challengers report highlights 100 companies from emerging markets - including Emirates Global Aluminum, Etihad Airways, Etisalat, Qatar Airways and SABIC - that are rapidly growing and globalizing: this year's list features the highest number of companies from the Middle East since the inaugural edition in 2006.

During the past decade, the 2016 global challengers from the Middle East have grown about 1.5 times in revenues between 2005 and 2014, global peers have essentially tripled their revenues. The region has the highest number of companies from the Middle East that, while not qualifying as global champions, are still growing and successful, high-profit companies. These companies, the study notes, have become successful not just from multinationals but also from homegrown companies.

BCG identified an impressive 101 companies based in the Middle East that, while not qualifying as global champions, are still growing and successful, high-profit companies. These companies, the study notes, have become successful not just from multinationals but also from homegrown companies.
