KUWAIT: Under the auspices of His Highness the Crown Prince Sheikh Nawaf Al-Ahmad Al-Jaber Al-Salab, the event was held on Sunday to honor high achievers for the academic year 2015/2016, all of whom are the sons and daughters of the nation’s martyrs. The ceremony opened with the national anthem and verses from the holy Quran, followed by a speech delivered by Sheikh Al-Jarrah.

The Deputy Minister of Amiri Diwan Affairs said: “We are proud of the nation’s youth and will support them as they ascend to the upper echelons of society. Addressing the students assembled in Regency Hotel where the ceremony was held, Sheikh Al-Jarrah said that they are the future of the nation, as he urged them to continue studying and achieve exemplary accomplishments. In a speech of wisdom, he said the people’s solidarity of martyr Al-Mutair’s office Fatma Al-Aty, said that the country is free to give this group of students, pressing them not to rest on their laurels and to strive for further success. Afterwards, a documentary chronicling the achievements of the children of the nation’s martyrs was screened. — KUNA

Alghanim Industries sponsors International Education Week

Organized by AMIDEAST • Supporting youth education

KUWAIT: Alghanim Industries, one of the largest privately owned companies in the region, is a proud sponsor of the International Education Week, which was organized by AMIDEAST, and was held on Sunday to honor high achievers for the academic year 2015/2016, all of whom are the sons and daughters of the nation’s martyrs.

Chairman of Alghanim Industries Kutayba Al-Faisal says, "We opened them to the public. We emphasized training, education and skill building because of the pivotal role played by young people in the country’s future. A role which enables them to adapt to our ever-changing world. And we work with young entrepreneurs so as to equip them with key skills such as financial literacy, creative thinking and problem solving. This stems from our belief that entrepreneurship and small businesses will be central to the future of jobs, not only for the nation - but for the region as a whole."

AMIDEAST’s Country Director for Kuwait, Samir Mink, also said, “AMIDEAST is a global organization that dates back 60 years and has more than 12 countries. We work to support education and training, and we are able to adapt our strategies based on the countries in which we operate. We recognize Kuwait’s economic need of raising a youthful generation that is educated, confident, and capable of building its future economy as well as giving back to its community. In order to achieve this, we have worked with and have found support from various governmental and private entities, as well as other non-governmental organizations, and we thank them for their cooperation with us. I would especially like to thank Alghanim Industries and its
