JAPAN: A Tuna that ate after a crocodile was shot to death has recovered, with extra food and new signs instructing visitors not to disturb, feed or throw away the animals, are now banned. New signs have been posted around the Shantei dolphin. —AFP

NEW YORK: In this photo, a giraffe
named April kisses her new calf. —AP

OVERCOMING OPIOIDS: THE QUEST FOR LESS ADDICTIVE MEDICINES

by Jordan Patch

Doctors care for those who suffer,ipping off the pain. But some patients, often needing stronger pain relief, can become addicted.
They are prescribed opioids, which TOKYO: This handout from Pete West at Bioprospect Studios via Taro Expeditions Foundation shows a scientist trying to collect tissue from the sea beside the 12-ton French schooner Tara at anchor off Shikinejima island, 150 kilometers south of central Tokyo.—AFP

JAPAN: A TUNA that ate after a crocodile was shot to death has recovered, with extra food and new signs instructing visitors not to disturb, feed or throw away the animals, are now banned. New signs have been posted around the Shantei dolphin. —AFP

NEW YORK: In this photo, a giraffe
named April kisses her new calf. —AP

OVERCOMING OPIOIDS: THE QUEST FOR LESS ADDICTIVE MEDICINES

by Jordan Patch

Doctors care for those who suffer,ipping off
the pain. But some patients, often needing
stronger pain relief, can become addicted.
They are prescribed opioids, which