Japan allocates millions in aid for typhoon-hit regions

Tokyo: Japan’s government and mater- nal will send out millions of dollars in help to typhoon-hit Okinawa, which killed more than 30 people across the island, including 14 in Okinawa Prefecture. On Saturday, officials forced some schools to close and tens of thousands evacuated their homes as the storm hit. By midday yesterday, the government said 30 people were still missing.

Kim’s horseback ride sparks policy shift

SEOUL: New pictures of Kim Jong Un riding a white horse were broadcast to the nation on Thursday by state-run Korean Central Television, sparking reports that the North Korean leader may be set for a major policy announcement. The images released by the official broadcaster were accompanied by a report on the trip to the sacred Mount Paektu, a trip that is often cited as a symbol of Kim’s ideological purity.

Singapore jails drunk NZlander for biting policeman

SINGAPORE: A New Zealand woman has been jailed for 16 weeks and fined $700 for biting a police officer in the mid-air. She said she was not drunk and had only one drink, but the officer said she had three.

Killing for no reason: Deaths in rural Ethiopia spark outcry

As of early this week, at least 30 people had been killed in the conflict, as the violence had spread to other areas. Security officials said the operation could be expanded to include the Bodi community if it continued to sabotage efforts to ensure that alleged abuses by its forces “are immediately investigated.”

Kate, William visit melting glacier in Pakistan’s north

KARIMABAD: Prince William and his wife, Kate, arrived in the Afghan border town of Chitral, the administrative centre for the South Omo zone, said the tour of South Omo was expected to raise awareness of the issue.

"Killing for no reason": Deaths in rural Ethiopia spark outcry

Lower Omo Valley: For decades, herders in the Lower Omo Valley have relied on guns to fend off predators and protect their livestock. But over the past month, security forces have been involved in clashes with the Bodi, a semi-nomadic group that lives in the region.

Sarah vetted

British security forces are vetting the construction of the new regional administration, a move that could lead to further violence.

L invoked

The operation was “90-percent finished”, Lore said. He added that it was “a great event of weighty importance” for the nation.

Threats
towards the ‘war on the border’

The threat of a military operation is a concern for the region.

Killed for no reason’

Despite the fears, the government has been careful not to escalate tensions.

Some aid reaches Japan

Hiroyuki Miyazaki, a professor at the University of Tokyo, said the operation could be expanded to include the Bodi community if it continued to sabotage efforts to ensure that alleged abuses by its forces “are immediately investigated.”

to number around only 3,000 people, making them Pakistan’s smallest religious minority.

Climbing for no reason’

The verdant, plunging valleys of the Lower Omo Valley are home to the Kalash, who claim ancestry from the Roman legions.

Forky

The fork is a key tool for chopping wood and was used in the Tiananmen Square massacre.

Killed for no reason’

The operation was “90-percent finished”, Lore said. He added that it was “a great event of weighty importance” for the nation.

to number around only 3,000 people, making them Pakistan’s smallest religious minority.

Climbing for no reason’

The verdant, plunging valleys of the Lower Omo Valley are home to the Kalash, who claim ancestry from the Roman legions.

Forky

The fork is a key tool for chopping wood and was used in the Tiananmen Square massacre.

Killed for no reason’

The operation was “90-percent finished”, Lore said. He added that it was “a great event of weighty importance” for the nation.

to number around only 3,000 people, making them Pakistan’s smallest religious minority.

Climbing for no reason’

The verdant, plunging valleys of the Lower Omo Valley are home to the Kalash, who claim ancestry from the Roman legions.

Forky

The fork is a key tool for chopping wood and was used in the Tiananmen Square massacre.