Ongoing fighting together with the world would enable us to face down the COVID-19 pandemic and its damaging consequences. An emergency virtual meeting last Thursday, G20 leaders took steps in the right direction. But we are still far away from a coherent, coordinated, and well-coordinated global response that meets the unprecedented magnitude of what we are facing.

For far too long, the victims of conflict, we all hold behind it. The disease initially took 87 days to infect 1,000,000 people, 18 days to infect 5,000,000 people, and more will be infected daily. Without concerted and coordinated action, the number of cases could still be in the millions if the world is not able to achieve universal health coverage to prevent or control a resurgence of pandemics as bad as or worse than in 2009.

Addressing the shocks. The International Monetary Fund (IMF) and financial institutions so that they can rapidly channel resources into the countries that need them. The United States must massively increase the resources amounting to a double-digit percentage of global wealth to address the shocks. The International Monetary Fund (IMF) and financial institutions so that they can rapidly channel resources into the countries that need them.

But we must massively increase the resources available to the developing world by expanding the capacity of the IMF sufficiently, to cover special drawing rights, and to act as a lender of last resort to the countries that are challenged with no jobs.

The government has repeatedly said that the options of imposing a total or partial lockdown are being considered by the cabinet and could be imposed when necessary. A large number of operations have been lifted for the deadly disease in the past few days. On Saturday, the Ministry of Health reported its first coronavirus death of an Indian who had been in the intensive care unit. The virus has spread especially among Indians, with some 110 of them among the 479 cases announced by Kuwait.

The world is facing a crisis of unprecedented magnitude. The economic consequences will be severe. But we are still far away from having concerted and coordinated, action like agreeing on a lockdown, especially in areas heavily populated by refugees. We also called for speeding up the process of sending home thousands of expatriate workers being illegally in the country or those who were stranded there with no jobs.

For far too long, the victims of conflict, we all hold behind it. The disease initially took 87 days to infect 1,000,000 people, 18 days to infect 5,000,000 people, and more will be infected daily. Without concerted and coordinated action, the number of cases could still be in the millions if the world is not able to achieve universal health coverage to prevent or control a resurgence of pandemics as bad as or worse than in 2009.

Addressing the shocks. The International Monetary Fund (IMF) and financial institutions so that they can rapidly channel resources into the countries that need them. The United States must massively increase the resources amounting to a double-digit percentage of global wealth to address the shocks. The International Monetary Fund (IMF) and financial institutions so that they can rapidly channel resources into the countries that need them.

The world is facing a crisis of unprecedented magnitude. The economic consequences will be severe. But we are still far away from having concerted and coordinated, action like agreeing on a lockdown, especially in areas heavily populated by refugees. We also called for speeding up the process of sending home thousands of expatriate workers being illegally in the country or those who were stranded there with no jobs.

For far too long, the victims of conflict, we all hold behind it. The disease initially took 87 days to infect 1,000,000 people, 18 days to infect 5,000,000 people, and more will be infected daily. Without concerted and coordinated action, the number of cases could still be in the millions if the world is not able to achieve universal health coverage to prevent or control a resurgence of pandemics as bad as or worse than in 2009.

Addressing the shocks. The International Monetary Fund (IMF) and financial institutions so that they can rapidly channel resources into the countries that need them. The United States must massively increase the resources amounting to a double-digit percentage of global wealth to address the shocks. The International Monetary Fund (IMF) and financial institutions so that they can rapidly channel resources into the countries that need them.

The world is facing a crisis of unprecedented magnitude. The economic consequences will be severe. But we are still far away from having concerted and coordinated, action like agreeing on a lockdown, especially in areas heavily populated by refugees. We also called for speeding up the process of sending home thousands of expatriate workers being illegally in the country or those who were stranded there with no jobs.

For far too long, the victims of conflict, we all hold behind it. The disease initially took 87 days to infect 1,000,000 people, 18 days to infect 5,000,000 people, and more will be infected daily. Without concerted and coordinated action, the number of cases could still be in the millions if the world is not able to achieve universal health coverage to prevent or control a resurgence of pandemics as bad as or worse than in 2009.

Addressing the shocks. The International Monetary Fund (IMF) and financial institutions so that they can rapidly channel resources into the countries that need them. The United States must massively increase the resources amounting to a double-digit percentage of global wealth to address the shocks. The International Monetary Fund (IMF) and financial institutions so that they can rapidly channel resources into the countries that need them.

The world is facing a crisis of unprecedented magnitude. The economic consequences will be severe. But we are still far away from having concerted and coordinated, action like agreeing on a lockdown, especially in areas heavily populated by refugees. We also called for speeding up the process of sending home thousands of expatriate workers being illegally in the country or those who were stranded there with no jobs.
Second chance for undocumented Filipinos, other nationals for amnesty on April 26-30

Amnesty rejected for violators with outstanding dues, court cases

Coronavirus in Kuwait: What we know so far

Kuwaiti has for so long been recorded in a list of the most vulnerable countries in the Middle East that even though it was a latecomer to the virus pandemic, it has managed to control the spread of the virus. The government has put a number of measures to prevent the spread of the virus and the government also has imposed lockdowns and other restrictions to contain the spread of the virus. The government also has imposed lockdowns and other restrictions to contain the spread of the virus.

The following are the measures that are currently in place in Kuwait:

- Social distancing: People are required to maintain a distance of at least 1 meter between each other.
- Wearing masks: Everyone is required to wear a mask in public places and when in close contact with others.
- Hand washing: Proper handwashing is recommended to avoid the spread of the virus.
- Avoiding large gatherings: Events and gatherings are limited to a maximum of 5 people.
- Travel restrictions: Travel to and from countries with high levels of infection is restricted.
- Quarantine: Those who have been in contact with infected individuals are required to undergo quarantine.

In Kuwait, the government has implemented a number of measures to combat the spread of the virus, including:

- Mandatory isolation: People who have been in contact with infected individuals are required to undergo quarantine.
- Testing: Everyone is required to undergo a mandatory test before entering the country.
- Quarantine centers: Those who have been in contact with infected individuals are required to undergo quarantine.
- Contact tracing: Everyone is required to undergo a mandatory test before entering the country.

The government has also imposed lockdowns and other restrictions to contain the spread of the virus. The government has also imposed lockdowns and other restrictions to contain the spread of the virus.

The following are the measures that are currently in place in Kuwait:

- Social distancing: People are required to maintain a distance of at least 1 meter between each other.
- Wearing masks: Everyone is required to wear a mask in public places and when in close contact with others.
- Hand washing: Proper handwashing is recommended to avoid the spread of the virus.
- Avoiding large gatherings: Events and gatherings are limited to a maximum of 5 people.
- Travel restrictions: Travel to and from countries with high levels of infection is restricted.
- Quarantine: Those who have been in contact with infected individuals are required to undergo quarantine.
- Testing: Everyone is required to undergo a mandatory test before entering the country.
- Contact tracing: Everyone is required to undergo a mandatory test before entering the country.

The government has also imposed lockdowns and other restrictions to contain the spread of the virus. The government has also imposed lockdowns and other restrictions to contain the spread of the virus.

The following are the measures that are currently in place in Kuwait:

- Social distancing: People are required to maintain a distance of at least 1 meter between each other.
- Wearing masks: Everyone is required to wear a mask in public places and when in close contact with others.
- Hand washing: Proper handwashing is recommended to avoid the spread of the virus.
- Avoiding large gatherings: Events and gatherings are limited to a maximum of 5 people.
- Travel restrictions: Travel to and from countries with high levels of infection is restricted.
- Quarantine: Those who have been in contact with infected individuals are required to undergo quarantine.
- Testing: Everyone is required to undergo a mandatory test before entering the country.
- Contact tracing: Everyone is required to undergo a mandatory test before entering the country.
Zain supplies Al-Zour Quarantine Center with telecom and networking digital infrastructure.

In collaboration with Kuwait Integrated Petroleum Industries Company

KUWAIT: Zain, the leading digital services provider in Kuwait, announced its collaboration with the Kuwait Integrated Petroleum Industries Company (KIPIC), a subsidiary of Kuwait Integrated Petroleum Corporation (KIPCO), to supply the quarantine center project at Al-Zour area - that is executed by KIPIC - with telecommunication and networking digital infrastructure. The collaboration came as part of the country’s tremendous efforts in these exceptional circumstances to fight the spread of the novel coronavirus disease (COVID-19) in Kuwait.

Zain’s collaboration with KIPIC comes as part of its commitment towards the nation during this crisis, ultimately reflecting the Kuwaiti private sector’s role in sustaining the oil sector for the nation’s well-being. This is especially true in such times of crisis, where the Kuwaiti society’s strength and unity are at their highest.

Advanced solutions

Zain offered a wide range of advanced solutions and services as per the highest international standards to build an integrated digital infrastructure for telecommunications and networking at the Al-Zour Quarantine Center project, which is fully executed by KIPIC. The solutions offered by Zain included ensuring the quarantine’s residents are benefited from wired and wireless telephone services, as well as high-speed internet networks to communicate with their families while they reside at the center. In addition, the services will be used by the Ministry of Health’s medical and administrative staff while they operate at the center to serve their personal and professional needs.

Under directives from the Kuwait Petroleum Corporation (KPC), the Kuwait Integrated Petroleum Industries Company (KIPIC) executes the Al-Zour Quarantine Center project to serve the needs of the Ministry of Health (MoH) in its efforts to fight the spread of coronavirus disease (COVID-19) in Kuwait. This project comes as part of KIPIC’s social responsibility and commitment towards the nation during the crisis. The center features a capacity of up to 1,000 beds, and is equipped with all necessary and vital facilities as per MoH’s requirements, including check-up rooms, recovery units, quarantine units, clinics, a laboratory, a pharmacy, and more.

Al-Zour Quarantine Center features nearly 850 rooms that were all supplied with 5-star hotel facilities. The center also features private accommodation for the medical staff, doctors, and nurses to prevent coming into contact and from the location and minimize contact as much as possible. The accommodation is also equipped with the same hotel-class facilities of the quarantine’s rooms, and the entire project will be handed over to MoH’s Preventive Health Department very soon.

Together as one

During his visit to the project site, Zain Kuwait’s Chief Enterprise Business Officer Hamad Al-Marzouq with Zain and KIPIC teams at the project’s site.

“Working together to protect our people”

Zain Kuwait’s Chief Enterprise Business Officer Hamad Al-Mazouq during a tour at Al-Zour Quarantine Center.

"Working together to protect our people""}

Deputy Chief Executive Officer of KIPIC Hatem Al-Awadhi.

"Working together to protect our people"
KUWAIT: The Interior Ministry opened two new locations in Jleeb Al-Shuyoukh to receive residency violators wishing to avail an amnesty the Interior Ministry announced this month. Visa violators of all nationalities can register from 8:00 am to 2:00 pm on weekdays at the following locations:

- For women: Roufayda Al-Aslameya School - Block 4 - Street 200
- For men: Naeem bin Masod School - Block 4 - Street 250

The two locations have been prepared according to security and precautionary measures to protect people's safety, the Interior Ministry's Public Relations and Media Department said in a statement, noting that free meals and drinks will be distributed to the violators.

Deputy Prime Minister and Interior Minister Anas Al-Saleh had issued an amnesty decision allowing residency violators to leave the country between April 1 and April 30 without paying any fines or airfare with a chance to return to Kuwait later. The amnesty was issued in view of the circumstances the country is currently going through and as part of the precautionary measures taken to fight the novel coronavirus (COVID-19). Individuals desiring to procure valid residencies in Kuwait and are willing to pay the fines without being subjected to investigations will be allowed to pay the fines and legalize their status if they meet the required conditions.

The ministry had earlier noted that special centers in Farwaniya were allocated to accommodate violators who finalize their papers pending departure, and these sites will be provided with all living comforts and free means of sustenance. Male violators are received at Al-Muthanna primary school for boys, Farwaniya, block 1, street 122, while female violators are received at the Al-Shabab primary school for girls, Farwaniya, block 1, street 76. Violators are received from 8 am till 2 pm according to the following dates and nationalities: Philippines (April 1-5, 2020), Egypt (April 6-10), India (April 11-15), Bangladesh (April 16-20), Sri Lanka (April 21-25), other nationalities (April 26-30, 2020).
Enabling local banks to help alleviate COVID-19 impacts

KUWAIT: Chairman of Kuwait Banking Association (KBA) Adel Al-Majed said the stimulus package announced by the Central Bank of Kuwait (CBK) recently makes KD 5 billion available for additional lending from local banks. The stimulus package includes easing the conditions previously set by the CBK for financing the economy's activities and small and medium-sized enterprises (SMEs) such as enabling the local banks to help alleviate the impacts of the novel coronavirus (COVID-19), he said in an interview on Saturday. “It will enable the banks to exercise their vital role in the economic growth through financing the business and clients in need of liquidity to continue their activities and meet long-term projects due to the current challenging conditions,” Hashel pointed out.

He noted that the local banks constantly coordinate with the CBK to mitigate the impacts of the novel coronavirus to reduce the need for funds for SMEs. As per the package, the CBK Governor Dr Mohammad Al-Hashel said it would help mitigate the impacts of the novel coronavirus to reduce the need for funds for SMEs.

KUWAIT: Ooredoo Kuwait; the first to launch innovative ‘Be Online’ campaign across the globe, people are changing their habits at home, work places and in places of gathering to reduce the risk of contracting the deadly virus; there is a look at some of the changes in behavior due to the coronavirus, which has killed more than 70,000 worldwide.

The world is almost under lockdown for months, disrupting the daily routine of many. People are trying to find new ways to keep in touch and explore the complex world of the deadly virus better. Changes in behavior due to the coronavirus, habits at home, work places and in places of gathering to reduce the risk of contracting the deadly virus; there is a look at some of the changes in behavior due to the COVID-19 pandemic (from the edges of the elevator to the multipurpose room). As if that is not enough, people are beginning to see the need to avoid unnecessary handshakes, hugs, and peeks on the door. We now try a show, a music, or make a hand gesture instead of a handshake while growing. Across the globe, people are changing their habits at home, work places and in places of gathering to reduce the risk of contracting the deadly virus.

KUWAIT: Ooredoo Kuwait; the first to launch innovative ‘Be Online’ campaign across the globe, people are changing their habits at home, work places and in places of gathering to reduce the risk of contracting the deadly virus; there is a look at some of the changes in behavior due to the coronavirus, which has killed more than 70,000 worldwide.

The world is almost under lockdown for months, disrupting the daily routine of many. People are trying to find new ways to keep in touch and explore the complex world of the deadly virus better. Changes in behavior due to the coronavirus, habits at home, work places and in places of gathering to reduce the risk of contracting the deadly virus; there is a look at some of the changes in behavior due to the COVID-19 pandemic (from the edges of the elevator to the multipurpose room). As if that is not enough, people are beginning to see the need to avoid unnecessary handshakes, hugs, and peeks on the door. We now try a show, a music, or make a hand gesture instead of a handshake while growing. Across the globe, people are changing their habits at home, work places and in places of gathering to reduce the risk of contracting the deadly virus.

Across Kuwait, one can notice a sudden change of behavior before the coronavirus pandemic. Among the edges of the elevator to the multipurpose room, people are seen with deplorable behaviors that were used to be before. Smoking is among the multitude of irritating anti-social behaviors witnessed even on a daily basis. Among otherffen, people have seen the need to cover their mouths and noses with a tissue when they cough or sneeze.

Handshaking and hugging

Authorities and medical experts have advised people not to shake hands or hug each other as a sign of greeting. Ooredoo Kuwait has initiated various social media campaigns to urge people not to shake hands or hug each other as a sign of greeting. Ooredoo Kuwait has also gone the extra mile to encourage people not to shake hands or hug each other as a sign of greeting.

Hand washing, lockdown

In recent times, regular and thorough washing of the hands with soap and alcohol-based hand rub have become critical in light against the novel coronavirus disease. As the pandemic continues to spread, it is crucial to ensure proper hand hygiene as a preventative measure against the disease. The novel coronavirus (COVID-19) is known for its ability to survive on surfaces for several days, making proper hand hygiene even more critical. Hand hygiene is a crucial strategy in the fight against the novel coronavirus (COVID-19) and plays a vital role in reducing the spread of the virus.

The novel coronavirus (COVID-19) is transmitted primarily through respiratory droplets. The virus can remain viable on surfaces for up to 72 hours, depending on the type of surface and environmental conditions. Therefore, maintaining proper hand hygiene is essential to prevent the spread of the virus. Handwashing with soap and water for at least 20 seconds or using an alcohol-based hand sanitizer is recommended to inactivate the virus.

It is worth mentioning that Ooredoo Kuwait has reinforced the importance of hand hygiene through various campaigns and initiatives. The company encourages its employees and customers to follow proper hand hygiene practices, such as washing hands frequently with soap and water, using alcohol-based hand sanitizer when soap and water are not available, and covering the mouth and nose with a tissue when coughing or sneezing.

The novel coronavirus (COVID-19) has led to a significant disruption in daily life for individuals and organizations around the world. To combat the spread of the virus, many countries have implemented lockdown measures, and businesses have had to adapt to new ways of operating. Ooredoo Kuwait, as a leading communication company, is committed to supporting its customers and stakeholders during this challenging time. The company has launched various initiatives to help its customers stay connected and informed during the pandemic.

Ooredoo Kuwait has introduced an innovative ‘Be Online’ campaign, which involves launching various digital offers and services designed to support customers and ensure they are well-connected and informed during the COVID-19 outbreak in the country. The digital offers and services provided by Ooredoo Kuwait include subscription to any Ooredoo’s app, offering the best music, series, movies, and games, replacing charging, joining ASA and free SMS delivery, and unlimited download benefits, among other offers. The company has also launched various initiatives to help businesses and individuals during the pandemic.

In addition to providing various digital offers and services, Ooredoo Kuwait is actively engaging with local authorities and community organizations to support the fight against the novel coronavirus (COVID-19). The company has dedicated its resources and efforts to help in the containment and management of the pandemic, while continuing to deliver essential services to its customers.

Ooredoo Kuwait is committed to supporting its customers during this challenging time and ensuring they have access to essential communication services. The company’s efforts are focused on providing reliable and secure communication solutions to help individuals and businesses stay connected and informed during the pandemic.
London: UK death rate to stay high

LONDON: The death rate in Britain is not expected to fall significantly, British officials said Saturday, as the country moved into a final phase of lockdown amidst the coronavirus pandemic.

According to data from government and health officials, the death rate in Britain has been relatively stable since the start of the lockdown, with about 200 people dying each day on average.

“Death rates are not expected to fall significantly,” said Stephen Powis, the national medical director of the National Health Service (NHS), in a statement.

The death toll in Britain has reached over 30,000, with about 16,000 new cases reported each day on average. The government has announced that the lockdown will continue until at least May 10, though a final decision on when it will be lifted will be announced in mid-April.

Meanwhile, the government has announced plans to increase testing capacity to 500,000 per day by the end of the month, as it prepares for the gradual easing of lockdown measures.

UK death toll rises

High figures from the coronavirus continue to sustain the country’s death toll as the government plans to ease lockdown restrictions in some areas.

The death toll in England has reached over 23,000, with about 500 people dying each day on average. The government has announced plans to ease lockdown restrictions in some areas, starting with the reopening of non-essential shops in the coming weeks.

Meanwhile, the government has announced plans to increase testing capacity to 500,000 per day by the end of the month, as it prepares for the gradual easing of lockdown measures.

5G conspiracy: Dangerous fake nonsense

A conspiracy theory that links 5G mobile networks to the spread of the novel coronavirus has been spreading rapidly in recent weeks, with some people claiming that the technology is causing harm to human health.

However, experts say there is no scientific evidence to support these claims and that the technology is important for the functioning of modern society.

The government has put Britain into lockdown, ordering people to stay inside and nearly all shops, while a strict social distancing rule was imposed.

The government has put Britain into lockdown, ordering people to stay inside and nearly all shops, while a strict social distancing rule was imposed.

French virus toll hits new high

PARIS: The total number of deaths from the coronavirus in France reached a new high Saturday, as the government prepared to ease some measures.

The number of deaths reported on Saturday reached 3,161, with the cumulative toll now standing at 18,071, according to data from the health ministry. The number of cases has also increased significantly, reaching 328,125.

Meanwhile, the government has announced plans to ease some lockdown measures, starting with the reopening of non-essential shops in the coming weeks.

Virus reveals, exacerbates US inequality

WASHINGTON: With its traditional focus on the economic and social welfare of Americans, the coronavirus pandemic has revealed and further exacerbated inequalities in the US.

Low-income and middle-class households are bearing the brunt of the economic fallout, with millions of Americans losing their jobs and struggling to make ends meet.

Some experts say the crisis is revealing and further exacerbating income inequalities, with low-income families being hit harder than wealthier ones.

The government has put Britain into lockdown, ordering people to stay inside and nearly all shops, while a strict social distancing rule was imposed.

A decade of employment gains came to an abrupt halt in March as the coronavirus pandemic took hold, with millions of workers losing their jobs and many businesses closing.

The government has put Britain into lockdown, ordering people to stay inside and nearly all shops, while a strict social distancing rule was imposed.

The government has put Britain into lockdown, ordering people to stay inside and nearly all shops, while a strict social distancing rule was imposed.

Virus reveals, exacerbates US inequality

WASHINGTON: With its traditional focus on the economic and social welfare of Americans, the coronavirus pandemic has revealed and further exacerbated inequalities in the US.

Low-income and middle-class households are bearing the brunt of the economic fallout, with millions of Americans losing their jobs and struggling to make ends meet.

Some experts say the crisis is revealing and further exacerbating income inequalities, with low-income families being hit harder than wealthier ones.

The government has put Britain into lockdown, ordering people to stay inside and nearly all shops, while a strict social distancing rule was imposed.

The government has put Britain into lockdown, ordering people to stay inside and nearly all shops, while a strict social distancing rule was imposed.

The government has put Britain into lockdown, ordering people to stay inside and nearly all shops, while a strict social distancing rule was imposed.

The government has put Britain into lockdown, ordering people to stay inside and nearly all shops, while a strict social distancing rule was imposed.
What impact is coronavirus having on Middle East conflicts?

The worst is yet to come — UN chief warns

Kuwait Times

Monday, April 6, 2020

The novel coronavirus has had a global impact, with more than 2.2 million cases worldwide, and the situation is expected to worsen as the US, Europe and many others face severe lockdown measures to contain the virus. The UN has stressed the need to ensure that humanitarian aid does not become a political tool in the fight against the pandemic.

Conflict in Syria

The COVID-19 outbreak has turned into a pandemic, with the Middle East, particularly Syria, bearing the brunt. The conflict in Syria has been ongoing for more than eight years, and the pandemic has added another layer of complexity to the already complex situation.

The UN says that more than 30 million people are in need of humanitarian assistance in Syria, with the situation expected to worsen as the virus spreads. The UN has warned that the pandemic could worsen the humanitarian crisis in Syria, with the risk of food shortages and a lack of medical supplies.

The UN has called on all parties to the conflict to ensure that humanitarian aid reaches those in need, and to avoid using the pandemic as a tool to worsen the situation.

Iraq

In Iraq, the situation is also dire, with the government struggling to control the spread of the virus. The country has reported more than 400 deaths and thousands of infections, with the situation expected to worsen as the lockdown measures are lifted.

The UN has called on the government to ensure that humanitarian aid reaches those in need, and to avoid using the pandemic as a tool to worsen the situation.

Iran

Iran has been hit hard by the pandemic, with more than 7,000 deaths and tens of thousands of infections. The country has imposed strict lockdown measures to control the spread of the virus, but the situation is expected to worsen as the lockdown measures are lifted.

The UN has called on the government to ensure that humanitarian aid reaches those in need, and to avoid using the pandemic as a tool to worsen the situation.

Israel

Israel has reported more than 30,000 infections and hundreds of deaths. The country has imposed strict lockdown measures to control the spread of the virus, but the situation is expected to worsen as the lockdown measures are lifted.

The UN has called on the government to ensure that humanitarian aid reaches those in need, and to avoid using the pandemic as a tool to worsen the situation.

Palestine

The Palestinian territories have reported more than 300 infections and dozens of deaths. The situation is expected to worsen as the lockdown measures are lifted.

The UN has called on the government to ensure that humanitarian aid reaches those in need, and to avoid using the pandemic as a tool to worsen the situation.

Other regions

The pandemic is expected to have a significant impact on the rest of the world, with the situation expected to worsen as the lockdown measures are lifted.

The UN has called on all parties to the conflict to ensure that humanitarian aid reaches those in need, and to avoid using the pandemic as a tool to worsen the situation.
Coronavirus-related illnesses killed 630 in New York

WASHINGTON: President Donald Trump told a news conference on Monday that at least 6,700 coronavirus patients have been killed in the United States and the death toll in New York City, the epicenter of the pandemic, is an “embarrassment to our nation.”

“The death toll is a number that’s truly embarrassing,” Trump told reporters. “I don’t know exactly what kind of numbers we’re going to have, but it’s a very, very high number.”

Trump said the United States was facing the “beginning” of its coronavirus disaster, with more than 90,000 cases and more than 3,000 deaths reported nationwide.

“We’re going to be very strong,” he added. “We’re going to do everything we can to control it.”

The president also said the federal government has been working with states to provide more ventilators and other medical equipment to help hospitals and other facilities.

“There are a lot of problems in this situation, maybe not the least of them is the difficulty of asking for help,” Trump said.

“People are beginning to understand that the best way that we can do is to prepare and actually avoid death in this way to avoid standard, going out only 409 — Husain.

Death at home: The unseen toll of Italian coronavirus crisis

MILAN: It took 60,000 Bertolli Hayward for Miami to be at a personal level, but there is no doubt in deaths to 409. — Reuters

The country has seen more than 100,000 cases of COVID-19 and accounts for almost a third of worldwide cases.

“Almost all Americans are under orders to stay home, and in recent days, they have been increasingly allowed to venture outdoors for exercise or work,” Trump said.

Mr Trump also told reporters that the United States will receive more ventilators and other medical equipment.

It will be the second straight week that the US death toll has been below 1,000, and the latest data from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention shows that the daily death rate has fallen to about 400.

Eleven killed in Colombia

BOGOTA: Eleven people were killed and four injured after a bus carrying passengers hit a cement wall on a road in central Colombia, near Bogota, on Tuesday.

The bus was carrying 15 people, including the driver, who died at the scene. The victims were the mother and father of a 5-year-old boy who was injured in the crash.

The victims were men who were working, but their cause of death was not immediately clear.

The accident occurred on a rural road near the city of Pasto, in the southern department of Nariño.

The victims were from the same family, but their cause of death was not immediately clear.

An accident occurred on a busy road in the city of Pasto, in the southern department of Nariño.

Eleven killed in Colombia

BOGOTA: Eleven people were killed and four injured after a bus carrying passengers hit a cement wall on a road in central Colombia, near Bogota, on Tuesday.

The bus was carrying 15 people, including the driver, who died at the scene. The victims were the mother and father of a 5-year-old boy who was injured in the crash.

The victims were men who were working, but their cause of death was not immediately clear.

The accident occurred on a rural road near the city of Pasto, in the southern department of Nariño.

The victims were from the same family, but their cause of death was not immediately clear.

An accident occurred on a busy road in the city of Pasto, in the southern department of Nariño.

Eleven killed in Colombia

BOGOTA: Eleven people were killed and four injured after a bus carrying passengers hit a cement wall on a road in central Colombia, near Bogota, on Tuesday.

The bus was carrying 15 people, including the driver, who died at the scene. The victims were the mother and father of a 5-year-old boy who was injured in the crash.

The victims were men who were working, but their cause of death was not immediately clear.

The accident occurred on a rural road near the city of Pasto, in the southern department of Nariño.

The victims were from the same family, but their cause of death was not immediately clear.

An accident occurred on a busy road in the city of Pasto, in the southern department of Nariño.

Eleven killed in Colombia

BOGOTA: Eleven people were killed and four injured after a bus carrying passengers hit a cement wall on a road in central Colombia, near Bogota, on Tuesday.

The bus was carrying 15 people, including the driver, who died at the scene. The victims were the mother and father of a 5-year-old boy who was injured in the crash.

The victims were men who were working, but their cause of death was not immediately clear.

The accident occurred on a rural road near the city of Pasto, in the southern department of Nariño.

The victims were from the same family, but their cause of death was not immediately clear.

An accident occurred on a busy road in the city of Pasto, in the southern department of Nariño.

Eleven killed in Colombia

BOGOTA: Eleven people were killed and four injured after a bus carrying passengers hit a cement wall on a road in central Colombia, near Bogota, on Tuesday.

The bus was carrying 15 people, including the driver, who died at the scene. The victims were the mother and father of a 5-year-old boy who was injured in the crash.

The victims were men who were working, but their cause of death was not immediately clear.

The accident occurred on a rural road near the city of Pasto, in the southern department of Nariño.

The victims were from the same family, but their cause of death was not immediately clear.

An accident occurred on a busy road in the city of Pasto, in the southern department of Nariño.

Eleven killed in Colombia

BOGOTA: Eleven people were killed and four injured after a bus carrying passengers hit a cement wall on a road in central Colombia, near Bogota, on Tuesday.

The bus was carrying 15 people, including the driver, who died at the scene. The victims were the mother and father of a 5-year-old boy who was injured in the crash.

The victims were men who were working, but their cause of death was not immediately clear.

The accident occurred on a rural road near the city of Pasto, in the southern department of Nariño.

The victims were from the same family, but their cause of death was not immediately clear.

An accident occurred on a busy road in the city of Pasto, in the southern department of Nariño.

Eleven killed in Colombia

BOGOTA: Eleven people were killed and four injured after a bus carrying passengers hit a cement wall on a road in central Colombia, near Bogota, on Tuesday.

The bus was carrying 15 people, including the driver, who died at the scene. The victims were the mother and father of a 5-year-old boy who was injured in the crash.

The victims were men who were working, but their cause of death was not immediately clear.

The accident occurred on a rural road near the city of Pasto, in the southern department of Nariño.

The victims were from the same family, but their cause of death was not immediately clear.

An accident occurred on a busy road in the city of Pasto, in the southern department of Nariño.

Eleven killed in Colombia

BOGOTA: Eleven people were killed and four injured after a bus carrying passengers hit a cement wall on a road in central Colombia, near Bogota, on Tuesday.

The bus was carrying 15 people, including the driver, who died at the scene. The victims were the mother and father of a 5-year-old boy who was injured in the crash.

The victims were men who were working, but their cause of death was not immediately clear.

The accident occurred on a rural road near the city of Pasto, in the southern department of Nariño.

The victims were from the same family, but their cause of death was not immediately clear.

An accident occurred on a busy road in the city of Pasto, in the southern department of Nariño.

Eleven killed in Colombia

BOGOTA: Eleven people were killed and four injured after a bus carrying passengers hit a cement wall on a road in central Colombia, near Bogota, on Tuesday.

The bus was carrying 15 people, including the driver, who died at the scene. The victims were the mother and father of a 5-year-old boy who was injured in the crash.

The victims were men who were working, but their cause of death was not immediately clear.

The accident occurred on a rural road near the city of Pasto, in the southern department of Nariño.

The victims were from the same family, but their cause of death was not immediately clear.

An accident occurred on a busy road in the city of Pasto, in the southern department of Nariño.

Eleven killed in Colombia

BOGOTA: Eleven people were killed and four injured after a bus carrying passengers hit a cement wall on a road in central Colombia, near Bogota, on Tuesday.

The bus was carrying 15 people, including the driver, who died at the scene. The victims were the mother and father of a 5-year-old boy who was injured in the crash.

The victims were men who were working, but their cause of death was not immediately clear.

The accident occurred on a rural road near the city of Pasto, in the southern department of Nariño.

The victims were from the same family, but their cause of death was not immediately clear.

An accident occurred on a busy road in the city of Pasto, in the southern department of Nariño.

Eleven killed in Colombia

BOGOTA: Eleven people were killed and four injured after a bus carrying passengers hit a cement wall on a road in central Colombia, near Bogota, on Tuesday.

The bus was carrying 15 people, including the driver, who died at the scene. The victims were the mother and father of a 5-year-old boy who was injured in the crash.

The victims were men who were working, but their cause of death was not immediately clear.

The accident occurred on a rural road near the city of Pasto, in the southern department of Nariño.

The victims were from the same family, but their cause of death was not immediately clear.

An accident occurred on a busy road in the city of Pasto, in the southern department of Nariño.

Eleven killed in Colombia

BOGOTA: Eleven people were killed and four injured after a bus carrying passengers hit a cement wall on a road in central Colombia, near Bogota, on Tuesday.

The bus was carrying 15 people, including the driver, who died at the scene. The victims were the mother and father of a 5-year-old boy who was injured in the crash.

The victims were men who were working, but their cause of death was not immediately clear.

The accident occurred on a rural road near the city of Pasto, in the southern department of Nariño.

The victims were from the same family, but their cause of death was not immediately clear.

An accident occurred on a busy road in the city of Pasto, in the southern department of Nariño.

Eleven killed in Colombia

BOGOTA: Eleven people were killed and four injured after a bus carrying passengers hit a cement wall on a road in central Colombia, near Bogota, on Tuesday.

The bus was carrying 15 people, including the driver, who died at the scene. The victims were the mother and father of a 5-year-old boy who was injured in the crash.

The victims were men who were working, but their cause of death was not immediately clear.

The accident occurred on a rural road near the city of Pasto, in the southern department of Nariño.

The victims were from the same family, but their cause of death was not immediately clear.

An accident occurred on a busy road in the city of Pasto, in the southern department of Nariño.

Eleven killed in Colombia

BOGOTA: Eleven people were killed and four injured after a bus carrying passengers hit a cement wall on a road in central Colombia, near Bogota, on Tuesday.

The bus was carrying 15 people, including the driver, who died at the scene. The victims were the mother and father of a 5-year-old boy who was injured in the crash.

The victims were men who were working, but their cause of death was not immediately clear.

The accident occurred on a rural road near the city of Pasto, in the southern department of Nariño.

The victims were from the same family, but their cause of death was not immediately clear.

An accident occurred on a busy road in the city of Pasto, in the southern department of Nariño.
10 Coronavirus leaves bitter taste for Canada maple sugar shakers

11 NKB introduces e-Godown services to its shareholders

March 29, 2020

By JONATHAN TAPER

ABU DHABI: People walk or ride bicycles over a bridge, during the novel coronavirus pandemic, in the Emirati city of Dubai on Friday. The Central Bank of the UAE announced on Thursday that Saudi Arabia had decreased the SDR to 750 billion dirhams ($70 billion),” the Central Bank of the UAE said in a statement reported by state news agency WAM. Putin, speaking on Friday during a video conference with government officials and the heads of major Russian oil producers, said the first reason for the fall in prices was the impact of the coronavirus on demand. “The second reason behind the collapse of prices is the withdrawal of our partners from Saudi Arabia from the OPEC+ deal,” the oil producer-sh economically the world’s biggest producers. —  Reuters

WASHINGTON: US President Donald Trump said on Saturday that Saudi Arabia had told him it would carry out cuts in domestic production. The source of the US oil deals, however, is still unknown. Other oil producers that do not belong to OPEC+ have indicated willingness to help Canada’s Alberta province, home to the world’s third-largest oil res- lane in the OPEC+ agreement to freeze output at March 2020 levels until April 9, OPEC sources said, as a dispute between Moscow and Riyadh over oil prices and production is raging. The central bank said in a statement on April 6 that it had reduced the SDR to 750 billion dirhams ($70 billion),” the Central Bank of the UAE said in a statement reported by state news agency WAM. Putin, speaking on Friday during a video conference with government officials and the heads of major Russian oil producers, said the first reason for the fall in prices was the impact of the coronavirus on demand. “The second reason behind the collapse of prices is the withdrawal of our partners from Saudi Arabia from the OPEC+ deal,” the oil producer-sh

US contribution key to reaching an agreement

Row over OPEC deal collapse rages; oil prices rise from lows

Saudia Arabia, as its UAE sister bourse in Abu Dhabi dropped 26.4 percent. —AFP

Trump threatens to impose tariffs on oil imports

WASHINGTON: US President Donald Trump said on Saturday that Saudi Arabia had told him it would carry out cuts in domestic production. The source of the US oil deals, however, is still unknown. Other oil producers that do not belong to OPEC+ have indicated willingness to help Canada’s Alberta province, home to the world’s third-largest oil reserves, in order to join any upcoming global pact. Western Europe’s biggest oil and gas producer Norway says it will not consider cutting its oil production if a global deal to curtail supply is agreed by the world’s biggest producers. — Reuters

OPEC+ is working on a deal to cut the production of oil equivalent by about 10 percent of world supply, or 10 million barrels per day, in what member states expect to be an unprecedented global effort including the United States. In the past, the US has considered cutting its oil production to cut world prices. But this time, however, has yet to make a commitment to join the effort. Russia’s President Vladimir Putin on Friday put the blame for the collapse in oil prices on Saudi Arabia – prompting a firm response from Riyadh on Saturday. “The Russian Ministry of Energy was the first to break the news of the talks that are being held by 10 of the participating countries as a show of their commitment to freeze production from the first of April,” he added. The regulator’s new measures also allow banks to defer payment of loans for companies and clients until the end of 2020. “The central bank said in a statement on April 6 that it had reduced the SDR to 750 billion dirhams ($70 billion),” the Central Bank of the UAE said in a statement reported by state news agency WAM. Putin, speaking on Friday during a video conference with government officials and the heads of major Russian oil producers, said the first reason for the fall in prices was the impact of the coronavirus on demand. “The second reason behind the collapse of prices is the withdrawal of our partners from Saudi Arabia from the OPEC+ deal,” the oil producer-sh

US contribution key to reaching an agreement

Row over OPEC deal collapse rages; oil prices rise from lows

The UAE, where 3,500 coronavirus cases and 10 deaths have been reported, has introduced strict measures including halting travel and closing shopping malls and entertainment venues.

On Saturday night, Dubai, one of the seven emirates making up the UAE, pro-

Trump threatens to impose tariffs on oil imports

WASHINGTON: US President Donald Trump said on Saturday that Saudi Arabia had told him it would carry out cuts in domestic production. The source of the US oil deals, however, is still unknown. Other oil producers that do not belong to OPEC+ have indicated willingness to help Canada’s Alberta province, home to the world’s third-largest oil reserves, in order to join any upcoming global pact. Western Europe’s biggest oil and gas producer Norway says it will not consider cutting its oil production if a global deal to curtail supply is agreed by the world’s biggest producers. — Reuters

OPEC+ is working on a deal to cut the production of oil equivalent by about 10 percent of world supply, or 10 million barrels per day, in what member states expect to be an unprecedented global effort including the United States. In the past, the US has considered cutting its oil production to cut world prices. But this time, however, has yet to make a commitment to join the effort. Russia’s President Vladimir Putin on Friday put the blame for the collapse in oil prices on Saudi Arabia – prompting a firm response from Riyadh on Saturday. “The Russian Ministry of Energy was the first to break the news of the talks that are being held by 10 of the participating countries as a show of their commitment to freeze production from the first of April,” he added. The regulator’s new measures also allow banks to defer payment of loans for companies and clients until the end of 2020. “The central bank said in a statement on April 6 that it had reduced the SDR to 750 billion dirhams ($70 billion),” the Central Bank of the UAE said in a statement reported by state news agency WAM. Putin, speaking on Friday during a video conference with government officials and the heads of major Russian oil producers, said the first reason for the fall in prices was the impact of the coronavirus on demand. “The second reason behind the collapse of prices is the withdrawal of our partners from Saudi Arabia from the OPEC+ deal,” the oil producer-sh
Montreal: Under a skiing sky, with spring in the air, Charlevoix is a region in the north of Quebec province with its maple syrup farms and sugar shack season. A scenic drive north of Montreal takes you through a picturesque landscape of rolling hills and quaint villages. Wood fires crackle in the hearths, and the aroma of maple sugar fills the air. Families gather to tap trees, gather sap, and turn it into delicious syrup. A traditional breakfast of bacon, eggs, and pancakes smothered in syrup is a treat for visitors. The maple syrup season is a celebration of the bounty of the land and the spirit of community. The Charlevoix region is known for its maple syrup and attracts visitors from around the world for its unique experience. The syrup season runs from late March to early May, with peak collecting times occurring in April. The syrup is used in a variety of dishes, from breakfast foods to desserts and beverages. It is also a major export for the region, providing income to farmers and supporting local businesses. The maple syrup season is a cherished tradition and a symbol of Quebec's cultural heritage.
Swiss firms put 1.3m workers on shorter hours

WINTERCROSSER: A quarter of Swiss workers have been put on reduced hours to help their companies weather the financial damage of the coronavirus crisis, which has seen global demand collapse and both sales and consumer confidence plunge.

The official figures show that 1.29 million people, or 24 percent of the workforce, have been placed on partial-time or temporary layoff since March 11, when the new regulations were introduced. The highest number of workers was placed on reduced hours in March, with 1.02 million people, or 21 percent of the workforce, according to the government.

The government announced a major package of economic measures to support the country's struggling economy, which has been hit hard by the global pandemic. The measures include a temporary wage subsidy program, which allows companies to cut workweeks and pay workers at a reduced rate. The government has also provided loans and grants to help businesses and workers during the crisis.

The move is part of a broader effort to keep the economy running and support those who have been hit by the crisis. The government has also introduced a package of measures to help those who have lost their jobs, including unemployment benefits and other support programs.

Spanish farmers, fishermen feel COVID-19 fallout

The Spanish government has announced that it will increase the allocation of resources to support the country's seafood industry, which has been hit hard by the coronavirus crisis.

The government has launched a new program to support the seafood industry, which has been hit hard by the coronavirus crisis. The program will provide financial assistance to the industry, including grants and loans, to help it weather the pandemic and support workers.

The program will provide financial assistance to the seafood industry, including grants and loans, to help it weather the pandemic and support workers. The government has also announced that it will provide support to the seafood industry, including grants and loans, to help it weather the pandemic and support workers.

The program will provide financial assistance to the seafood industry, including grants and loans, to help it weather the pandemic and support workers. The government has also announced that it will provide support to the seafood industry, including grants and loans, to help it weather the pandemic and support workers.

The program will provide financial assistance to the seafood industry, including grants and loans, to help it weather the pandemic and support workers. The government has also announced that it will provide support to the seafood industry, including grants and loans, to help it weather the pandemic and support workers.

The program will provide financial assistance to the seafood industry, including grants and loans, to help it weather the pandemic and support workers. The government has also announced that it will provide support to the seafood industry, including grants and loans, to help it weather the pandemic and support workers.
LAGO PENUELAS, Chile: With historically low river flows and reservoirs running dry due to drought, people in central Chile have found themselves particularly vulnerable to the coronavirus pandemic.

Years of resource exploitation and lax legislation have allowed most reservoirs in that part of the country to run dry. "There are now 400,000 families, nearly 1.5 million people approximately, whose supply of 50 liters of water a day depends on tankers," Rodrigo Mundaca, spokesman for the Movement for the Defense of Water, the Earth and the Protection of the Environment, told AFP.

One of the main pieces of advice to protect people against coronavirus is to wash your hands regularly. "Living without water is awful," said Dilma Castillo, who lives with her children on one of the hills around El Melon, a town of 22,000 close to the seaside resort of Valparaiso whose river has dried up.

"The worst thing is that there's no awareness, even among the people here. I'm very distressed because it's humiliating to live in these conditions. In the greater Santiago area and in Valparaiso, rainfall last year was the lowest on record, hitting down 90 percent. Water tankers serve many homes, whose inhabitants come out to fill drums.

The virus pandemic is highlighting "once more that where there is a model of the private appropriation of water ... this condition does not guarantee people's human right to water and further weakens communities," said Mundaca.

Chilean law states that water is a resource for public use, but it turned over almost the entirety of the right to exploit the resource to the private sector. "I've been coming here to fish for 20 years. At first we used to catch a lot ... now we don't catch anything," Tomas Calle told AFP from the banks of what was left of the lake.

Residents angered Matias Arrieta, the director of Greenpeace-Chile, said this week that the government of President Sebastian Pinera must "guarantee that there are no second-class citizens without the basics to protect themselves from COVID-19." "There is no awareness on the part of the government to wash with it," he said. Chile has reported more than 3,700 coronavirus cases and 22 deaths.

Private exploitation of water wasn't a problem in times of abundance, as was the case until recently. But the drought has brought a furious reaction from communities that have run out of water in a country that saw an outbreak of social unrest in October that only subsided when social distancing measures were imposed.

"The problem has to do with how those rights are distributed and what conditions are imposed," said Andrei Jouravlev, a member of the Economic Commission for Latin America and the Caribbean. — AFP

MELON, Chile: A man observes from a pier the dried Collague Reservoir, in Melon, Chile. Flows of rivers and reservoirs have reached historic minimums in Chile. — AFP
To advertise on this Page

Call: 24833199 ext:101,102
or Direct line: 24835616 / 24835617
or email: ads@kuwaittimes.com
Camila Mendes adopts a dog to be her 'quarantine companion'

Katy Kelly had seen her toddler’s potty become a lonely little tool in recent weeks while she was learning to use it. But as Andy’s symptoms started to improve, he decided the time was right to start potty training again.

Andy was diagnosed with COVID-19 on March 20 and spent 10 days in a hospital in New York City. After recovering, he was placed in quarantine and has now started to feel much better. Andy says his symptoms included a fever, tightness in his chest, a cough and difficulty breathing.

Andy is currently being held at the Metropolitan Detention Center in New York City, which has been at the center of a coronavirus outbreak. Andy is one of over 11,000 inmates who have been released from the facility due to the facility’s inability to adequately clean its facility. Andy is part of a group of inmates who have filed a class-action lawsuit against the facility.

Andy’s case has been closely watched by the public and has raised questions about the safety of incarcerated individuals during the pandemic. Andy has been vocal about his experiences and has used his platform to raise awareness about the need for better conditions in detention facilities.

Andy has been using his social media to share updates about his recovery and the conditions he has experienced in prison. He has also been using his platform to raise money for charity and to support local shelters.

Andy has been working to raise awareness about the importance of self-quarantining and the need for better conditions in detention facilities. He has also been using his platform to support local shelters and to spread awareness about the need for better conditions in detention facilities.

Andy has been using his platform to raise awareness about the need for better conditions in detention facilities. He has also been using his platform to support local shelters and to spread awareness about the need for better conditions in detention facilities.

Andy has been using his platform to raise awareness about the need for better conditions in detention facilities. He has also been using his platform to support local shelters and to spread awareness about the need for better conditions in detention facilities.

Andy has been using his platform to raise awareness about the need for better conditions in detention facilities. He has also been using his platform to support local shelters and to spread awareness about the need for better conditions in detention facilities.

Andy has been using his platform to raise awareness about the need for better conditions in detention facilities. He has also been using his platform to support local shelters and to spread awareness about the need for better conditions in detention facilities.

Andy has been using his platform to raise awareness about the need for better conditions in detention facilities. He has also been using his platform to support local shelters and to spread awareness about the need for better conditions in detention facilities.

Andy has been using his platform to raise awareness about the need for better conditions in detention facilities. He has also been using his platform to support local shelters and to spread awareness about the need for better conditions in detention facilities.

Andy has been using his platform to raise awareness about the need for better conditions in detention facilities. He has also been using his platform to support local shelters and to spread awareness about the need for better conditions in detention facilities.

Andy has been using his platform to raise awareness about the need for better conditions in detention facilities. He has also been using his platform to support local shelters and to spread awareness about the need for better conditions in detention facilities.

Andy has been using his platform to raise awareness about the need for better conditions in detention facilities. He has also been using his platform to support local shelters and to spread awareness about the need for better conditions in detention facilities.

Andy has been using his platform to raise awareness about the need for better conditions in detention facilities. He has also been using his platform to support local shelters and to spread awareness about the need for better conditions in detention facilities.

Andy has been using his platform to raise awareness about the need for better conditions in detention facilities. He has also been using his platform to support local shelters and to spread awareness about the need for better conditions in detention facilities.

Andy has been using his platform to raise awareness about the need for better conditions in detention facilities. He has also been using his platform to support local shelters and to spread awareness about the need for better conditions in detention facilities.

Andy has been using his platform to raise awareness about the need for better conditions in detention facilities. He has also been using his platform to support local shelters and to spread awareness about the need for better conditions in detention facilities.

Andy has been using his platform to raise awareness about the need for better conditions in detention facilities. He has also been using his platform to support local shelters and to spread awareness about the need for better conditions in detention facilities.

Andy has been using his platform to raise awareness about the need for better conditions in detention facilities. He has also been using his platform to support local shelters and to spread awareness about the need for better conditions in detention facilities.

Andy has been using his platform to raise awareness about the need for better conditions in detention facilities. He has also been using his platform to support local shelters and to spread awareness about the need for better conditions in detention facilities.

Andy has been using his platform to raise awareness about the need for better conditions in detention facilities. He has also been using his platform to support local shelters and to spread awareness about the need for better conditions in detention facilities.

Andy has been using his platform to raise awareness about the need for better conditions in detention facilities. He has also been using his platform to support local shelters and to spread awareness about the need for better conditions in detention facilities.

Andy has been using his platform to raise awareness about the need for better conditions in detention facilities. He has also been using his platform to support local shelters and to spread awareness about the need for better conditions in detention facilities.

Andy has been using his platform to raise awareness about the need for better conditions in detention facilities. He has also been using his platform to support local shelters and to spread awareness about the need for better conditions in detention facilities.

Andy has been using his platform to raise awareness about the need for better conditions in detention facilities. He has also been using his platform to support local shelters and to spread awareness about the need for better conditions in detention facilities.

Andy has been using his platform to raise awareness about the need for better conditions in detention facilities. He has also been using his platform to support local shelters and to spread awareness about the need for better conditions in detention facilities.

Andy has been using his platform to raise awareness about the need for better conditions in detention facilities. He has also been using his platform to support local shelters and to spread awareness about the need for better conditions in detention facilities.

Andy has been using his platform to raise awareness about the need for better conditions in detention facilities. He has also been using his platform to support local shelters and to spread awareness about the need for better conditions in detention facilities.

Andy has been using his platform to raise awareness about the need for better conditions in detention facilities. He has also been using his platform to support local shelters and to spread awareness about the need for better conditions in detention facilities.

Andy has been using his platform to raise awareness about the need for better conditions in detention facilities. He has also been using his platform to support local shelters and to spread awareness about the need for better conditions in detention facilities.

Andy has been using his platform to raise awareness about the need for better conditions in detention facilities. He has also been using his platform to support local shelters and to spread awareness about the need for better conditions in detention facilities.

Andy has been using his platform to raise awareness about the need for better conditions in detention facilities. He has also been using his platform to support local shelters and to spread awareness about the need for better conditions in detention facilities.

Andy has been using his platform to raise awareness about the need for better conditions in detention facilities. He has also been using his platform to support local shelters and to spread awareness about the need for better conditions in detention facilities.

Andy has been using his platform to raise awareness about the need for better conditions in detention facilities. He has also been using his platform to support local shelters and to spread awareness about the need for better conditions in detention facilities.

Andy has been using his platform to raise awareness about the need for better conditions in detention facilities. He has also been using his platform to support local shelters and to spread awareness about the need for better conditions in detention facilities.

Andy has been using his platform to raise awareness about the need for better conditions in detention facilities. He has also been using his platform to support local shelters and to spread awareness about the need for better conditions in detention facilities.

Andy has been using his platform to raise awareness about the need for better conditions in detention facilities. He has also been using his platform to support local shelters and to spread awareness about the need for better conditions in detention facilities.

Andy has been using his platform to raise awareness about the need for better conditions in detention facilities. He has also been using his platform to support local shelters and to spread awareness about the need for better conditions in detention facilities.

Andy has been using his platform to raise awareness about the need for better conditions in detention facilities. He has also been using his platform to support local shelters and to spread awareness about the need for better conditions in detention facilities.
Easter Island inhabitants turn to tradition to tackle virus troubles

Pushed to their limits by the pandemic, the indigenous inhabitants of the world’s largest human-made monument have turned to the ancient concept of Tapu—meaning to accompany this self-isolation period. The term is derived from the English word “taboo” and signifies an ancestral rule based on sustainability and respect, one that has been respected by the native Rapa Nui people. “To accompany this self-isolation period in solidarity with our ancestors, we have been adapting to our new circumstances,” said Edmunds, a resident of Easter Island. “This is an ancestral rule based on mutual accountability and respect.”

The island community has been affected by the global pandemic, with 3,000 people “will be seen begging in the streets for food,” said Edmunds. “It won’t be the first time the community has been forced to rely on itself.”

Plan B and we’ve already started planting,” said Tuki, the island’s mayor. “We have to plan for the worst, but we will find a way to adapt.”

Disney delays Marvel blockbusters but hopes for summer ‘Mulan’ launch

Disney delayed the release of more than a dozen films Friday, bringing its total to 14, as theaters remained closed due to the coronavirus pandemic. The schedule confirmed earlier reports that some titles, including “Black Widow” and “The Eternals,” are now set for a streaming release. The studio had faced mounting pressure to release at least some films to keep audiences engaged during a time when theaters were closed.

Disney last month said it would launch its streaming service in November, but the coronavirus pandemic has caused that date to be pushed back to July 2021. Disney also said it would delay the release of several films, including “Mulan” and “Star Wars” spinoff “Obi-Wan Kenobi.”

Mulan’s release is now tentatively set for July 24. That chimes with the tale of a legendary Chinese warrior — is now expected to premiere July 17. The film’s title character, played by Disney princess favorite Liu Yifei, is trapped at home. Industry legends have lined up to support the film, which has been pushed back several times due to the pandemic.

“Mulan” will debut on Disney’s streaming service, which is set to launch November. The film will be released on a pay-per-view basis and then added to the streaming library at a later date.

Quibi launching Hollywood ‘on the go’ streaming amid lockdown

The multi-billion-dollar streaming platform launching during the pandemic has decided to continue production of its shows, which include original series and short-form programs. Quibi will also hold an upfront in October, an event traditionally held for networks and streaming services.

“Quibi’s decision to continue production is a bold move given the current state of the industry,” said Whitman. “Big Hollywood names have already adapted to their new circumstances and started shooting. Only one studio, Lionsgate, operated the five-hour Lights to the continent, but like many airlines, its business has been hampered by the virus. We’ll still be able to go through the industry because the companies don’t have enough capital to keep going.”

After an initial batch at launch, one “chapter” will be released per day, with an aim to release eight to 10 chapters each week. The platform will also be available on mobile devices, streaming platforms and smart TVs.

New MPs for Parliament of Easter Island

The Easter Island’s legislative council met on Friday to elect the new assembly members. The council has seven members, with four from the Chilean government and three from the local community. The new members are expected to focus on issues such as tourism and sustainability.

The new government was sworn in on Wednesday, with the new president, Alejandro Tuki, saying the council will focus on issues such as tourism and sustainability.

The council has seven members, with four from the Chilean government and three from the local community. The new members are expected to focus on issues such as tourism and sustainability.

The new government was sworn in on Wednesday, with the new president, Alejandro Tuki, saying the council will focus on issues such as tourism and sustainability.
Iraqis rally to help needy families as... Continued from Page 1

I Iraq's oil revenue, the biggest oil producer in the world, is crucial to the country's economy and hence to its survival. The government has to cut public-sector wages, but not facing larger challenges. "We don't know when this crisis will end. It could go on until July," Prime Minister Abadi said at a press conference in Baghdad on Saturday.

Abadi said that the Iraqi government would start in the face of a threat," he told the Thomson Reuters Foundation. "Community surveillance could also end up being a major effort in such a crisis," he added.

In the future, the surveillance systems will be useful in preventing the spread of the virus, especially in communities that are more at risk of the pandemic, climate change and other challenges. "In the future, we may need to turn to other economic policies," he said.

The government has not yet released a list of the people who are affected by the lockdown. The ministry of health has appointed a team of experts to study the situation.

The ministry also announced that all schools will be closed for the rest of the school year.

The ministry said that it is hard to predict how long the lockdown will last. The government is considering the possibility of lifting some restrictions, but this will depend on the situation.

The ministry also said that it is important to continue to support the vulnerable groups in the country, especially those affected by the pandemic.

People are still getting married... Continued from Page 1

"The government has not yet released a list of the people who are affected by the lockdown. The ministry of health has appointed a team of experts to study the situation.

The ministry also announced that all schools will be closed for the rest of the school year.

The ministry said that it is hard to predict how long the lockdown will last. The government is considering the possibility of lifting some restrictions, but this will depend on the situation.

The ministry also said that it is important to continue to support the vulnerable groups in the country, especially those affected by the pandemic.

People are still getting married... Continued from Page 1

"The government has not yet released a list of the people who are affected by the lockdown. The ministry of health has appointed a team of experts to study the situation.

The ministry also announced that all schools will be closed for the rest of the school year.

The ministry said that it is hard to predict how long the lockdown will last. The government is considering the possibility of lifting some restrictions, but this will depend on the situation.

The ministry also said that it is important to continue to support the vulnerable groups in the country, especially those affected by the pandemic.

People are still getting married... Continued from Page 1

"The government has not yet released a list of the people who are affected by the lockdown. The ministry of health has appointed a team of experts to study the situation.

The ministry also announced that all schools will be closed for the rest of the school year.

The ministry said that it is hard to predict how long the lockdown will last. The government is considering the possibility of lifting some restrictions, but this will depend on the situation.

The ministry also said that it is important to continue to support the vulnerable groups in the country, especially those affected by the pandemic.

People are still getting married... Continued from Page 1

"The government has not yet released a list of the people who are affected by the lockdown. The ministry of health has appointed a team of experts to study the situation.

The ministry also announced that all schools will be closed for the rest of the school year.

The ministry said that it is hard to predict how long the lockdown will last. The government is considering the possibility of lifting some restrictions, but this will depend on the situation.

The ministry also said that it is important to continue to support the vulnerable groups in the country, especially those affected by the pandemic.

People are still getting married... Continued from Page 1

"The government has not yet released a list of the people who are affected by the lockdown. The ministry of health has appointed a team of experts to study the situation.

The ministry also announced that all schools will be closed for the rest of the school year.

The ministry said that it is hard to predict how long the lockdown will last. The government is considering the possibility of lifting some restrictions, but this will depend on the situation.

The ministry also said that it is important to continue to support the vulnerable groups in the country, especially those affected by the pandemic.
Today could be a rather unpleasant day for you, Cancer. You might find it difficult to be around others and feel your personal space is being invaded. This could be due to someone who is actually not trying to invade your space, but you might feel they are doing so. Keep your distance from this person and don’t allow them to get too close to you.

You might also find it difficult to concentrate on your work or other tasks, Aries. This could be due to a lack of focus or a lack of energy. Try to find a quiet place where you can work undisturbed, and try to avoid distractions as much as possible.

A number of great ideas either for new creative projects or enhancing ongoing ones could pop into your head during the day. If you don’t write them down immediately, they could just stick around in your head, making it difficult for you to focus on other things.

Someone you’ve wanted to hear from for a long time, perhaps an old friend who lives far away, could ring you up today while you’re out, Cancer. You’ll be happy to talk to them, even if it means interrupting your plans for the day.

You could find yourself wondering if there are changes within the company that you know nothing about. Try to learn more about the company before making any decisions, Gemini. This could be confusing, and you might want to speak to someone who knows what’s going on.

You could be feeling restless and frustrated due to a temporary separation from a partner, Pisces. Perhaps an emergency, such as a job change or a sudden illness, has interrupted your plans. This could be frustrating, but try to find a way to deal with the situation.

You could be in a rather touchy mood today, Virgo. Therefore, you might find it difficult to deal with people who irritate you. Don’t take it personally, and try to stay calm and composed.

A colleague or possibly a romantic partner could come to you today, Scorpio. Perhaps they are looking for advice or guidance, and you might be able to help them.

A rather upsetting dream could disturb your sleep, Libra. Don’t worry if you wake up feeling a bit distressed. This is just your subconscious way of trying to process something that’s been on your mind.

A colleague or a friend might bring some extra money your way, Sagittarius. This could be a welcome surprise, and you might find it easier to put aside some money for a rainy day.

A rather disconcerting rumor about your job could come to you today, Capricorn. Perhaps you’re wondering if your job is in danger, and this rumor could be a sign of things to come. Try to stay calm and don’t jump to any conclusions yet.

You might find this person difficult to deal with. You could avoid them if possible, Aquarius. This could be especially difficult if you have to work with them on a regular basis.

You could be feeling restless and frustrated due to a temporary separation from a partner, Pisces. Perhaps a business partner or a family member has moved away, and you might feel isolated. Try to find something to keep you occupied, and have some fun!

A rather surprising opportunity could present itself, Taurus. Don’t be too quick to jump on it, however. You might want to consider all your options before making a decision.

A rather disappointing event could occur, Aries. Perhaps you’re expecting something good to happen, but it doesn’t. Try to stay calm and don’t let this get you down.

A rather frightening experience could occur, Leo. Don’t be too quick to jump to any conclusions. This could be a sign of things to come, but it’s not necessarily a bad thing.

A colleague or a friend might bring some extra money your way, Sagittarius. This could be a welcome surprise, and you might find it easier to put aside some money for a rainy day.

A colleague or a friend might bring some extra money your way, Capricorn. This could be a welcome surprise, and you might find it easier to put aside some money for a rainy day.

You might find it difficult to concentrate on your work or other tasks, Aries. This could be due to a lack of focus or a lack of energy. Try to find a quiet place where you can work undisturbed, and try to avoid distractions as much as possible.

You might also find it difficult to concentrate on your work or other tasks, Aries. This could be due to a lack of focus or a lack of energy. Try to find a quiet place where you can work undisturbed, and try to avoid distractions as much as possible.

A colleague or a friend might bring some extra money your way, Sagittarius. This could be a welcome surprise, and you might find it easier to put aside some money for a rainy day.

A colleague or a friend might bring some extra money your way, Capricorn. This could be a welcome surprise, and you might find it easier to put aside some money for a rainy day.

You might find it difficult to concentrate on your work or other tasks, Aries. This could be due to a lack of focus or a lack of energy. Try to find a quiet place where you can work undisturbed, and try to avoid distractions as much as possible.

You might also find it difficult to concentrate on your work or other tasks, Aries. This could be due to a lack of focus or a lack of energy. Try to find a quiet place where you can work undisturbed, and try to avoid distractions as much as possible.
Sports

Monday, April 6, 2020

Photo of the Day

18

It’s quite eerie: Horses race on in Australia and Asia

SYDNEY: Punters in the UK had to make do with a virtual Grand National weekend festivities, but in Australia, there are still able to enjoy a Britain on the racetrack as well.

Seville’s unique racing festival built-out the patriotic theme by offering a racecourse in the dream of a jockey in France. The race moved outside its traditional home in the English countryside.

The home of the English Grand National, was able to race in South Africa for two matches and New Zealand for a Test in Ireland but there are no followers to doubt the coronavirus precautions.

The stuff in the Six Nations is done now. I’m not looking at that and thinking we need to look back. I just think how can we move forward, can we get better as a team?” Russell told GetBus.

"It’s quite eerie": Horses race on in Australia and Asia.

Exile fly-half Russell targets Scotland return with July tour

Fiji rugby players arrested for breaching virus isolation

PARIS: Fly-half Finn Russell said he was targeting Scotland’s summer tour as a return to Test scene after missing the Six Nations following a breakdown in his relationship with coach Gregor Townsend.

Russell, who has 40 Test appearances, was unavailable to his country earlier this year after leaving the national set-up before the start of the tournament.

Townsend’s side are due to head to South Africa for two matches and New Zealand for a Test in Ireland, but the fixtures are in doubt due to the coronavirus pandemic.

"The stuff in the Six Nations is done now. I’m not looking at that and thinking we need to look back. I just think how can we move forward, can we get better as a team?” Russell told GetBus.

"It’s quite eerie": Horses race on in Australia and Asia.

"I’m not looking at that and thinking we need to look back. I just think how can we move forward, can we get better as a team?” Russell told GetBus.

"It’s quite eerie": Horses race on in Australia and Asia.

"I’m not looking at that and thinking we need to look back. I just think how can we move forward, can we get better as a team?” Russell told GetBus.

"It’s quite eerie": Horses race on in Australia and Asia.

"I’m not looking at that and thinking we need to look back. I just think how can we move forward, can we get better as a team?” Russell told GetBus.

"It’s quite eerie": Horses race on in Australia and Asia.

"I’m not looking at that and thinking we need to look back. I just think how can we move forward, can we get better as a team?” Russell told GetBus.

"It’s quite eerie": Horses race on in Australia and Asia.

"I’m not looking at that and thinking we need to look back. I just think how can we move forward, can we get better as a team?” Russell told GetBus.

"It’s quite eerie": Horses race on in Australia and Asia.

"I’m not looking at that and thinking we need to look back. I just think how can we move forward, can we get better as a team?” Russell told GetBus.

"It’s quite eerie": Horses race on in Australia and Asia.

"I’m not looking at that and thinking we need to look back. I just think how can we move forward, can we get better as a team?” Russell told GetBus.

"It’s quite eerie": Horses race on in Australia and Asia.

"I’m not looking at that and thinking we need to look back. I just think how can we move forward, can we get better as a team?” Russell told GetBus.

"It’s quite eerie": Horses race on in Australia and Asia.

"I’m not looking at that and thinking we need to look back. I just think how can we move forward, can we get better as a team?” Russell told GetBus.

"It’s quite eerie": Horses race on in Australia and Asia.

"I’m not looking at that and thinking we need to look back. I just think how can we move forward, can we get better as a team?” Russell told GetBus.

"It’s quite eerie": Horses race on in Australia and Asia.

"I’m not looking at that and thinking we need to look back. I just think how can we move forward, can we get better as a team?” Russell told GetBus.

"It’s quite eerie": Horses race on in Australia and Asia.

"I’m not looking at that and thinking we need to look back. I just think how can we move forward, can we get better as a team?” Russell told GetBus.

"It’s quite eerie": Horses race on in Australia and Asia.

"I’m not looking at that and thinking we need to look back. I just think how can we move forward, can we get better as a team?” Russell told GetBus.

"It’s quite eerie": Horses race on in Australia and Asia.

"I’m not looking at that and thinking we need to look back. I just think how can we move forward, can we get better as a team?” Russell told GetBus.

"It’s quite eerie": Horses race on in Australia and Asia.

"I’m not looking at that and thinking we need to look back. I just think how can we move forward, can we get better as a team?” Russell told GetBus.

"It’s quite eerie": Horses race on in Australia and Asia.

"I’m not looking at that and thinking we need to look back. I just think how can we move forward, can we get better as a team?” Russell told GetBus.

"It’s quite eerie": Horses race on in Australia and Asia.

"I’m not looking at that and thinking we need to look back. I just think how can we move forward, can we get better as a team?” Russell told GetBus.

"It’s quite eerie": Horses race on in Australia and Asia.

"I’m not looking at that and thinking we need to look back. I just think how can we move forward, can we get better as a team?” Russell told GetBus.

"It’s quite eerie": Horses race on in Australia and Asia.

"I’m not looking at that and thinking we need to look back. I just think how can we move forward, can we get better as a team?” Russell told GetBus.

"It’s quite eerie": Horses race on in Australia and Asia.

"I’m not looking at that and thinking we need to look back. I just think how can we move forward, can we get better as a team?” Russell told GetBus.

"It’s quite eerie": Horses race on in Australia and Asia.

"I’m not looking at that and thinking we need to look back. I just think how can we move forward, can we get better as a team?” Russell told GetBus.

"It’s quite eerie": Horses race on in Australia and Asia.

"I’m not looking at that and thinking we need to look back. I just think how can we move forward, can we get better as a team?” Russell told GetBus.

"It’s quite eerie": Horses race on in Australia and Asia.

"I’m not looking at that and thinking we need to look back. I just think how can we move forward, can we get better as a team?” Russell told GetBus.

"It’s quite eerie": Horses race on in Australia and Asia.

"I’m not looking at that and thinking we need to look back. I just think how can we move forward, can we get better as a team?” Russell told GetBus.

"It’s quite eerie": Horses race on in Australia and Asia.

"I’m not looking at that and thinking we need to look back. I just think how can we move forward, can we get better as a team?” Russell told GetBus.

"It’s quite eerie": Horses race on in Australia and Asia.

"I’m not looking at that and thinking we need to look back. I just think how can we move forward, can we get better as a team?” Russell told GetBus.

"It’s quite eerie": Horses race on in Australia and Asia.

"I’m not looking at that and thinking we need to look back. I just think how can we move forward, can we get better as a team?” Russell told GetBus.

"It’s quite eerie": Horses race on in Australia and Asia.

"I’m not looking at that and thinking we need to look back. I just think how can we move forward, can we get better as a team?” Russell told GetBus.

"It’s quite eerie": Horses race on in Australia and Asia.

"I’m not looking at that and thinking we need to look back. I just think how can we move forward, can we get better as a team?” Russell told GetBus.

"It’s quite eerie": Horses race on in Australia and Asia.

"I’m not looking at that and thinking we need to look back. I just think how can we move forward, can we get better as a team?” Russell told GetBus.

"It’s quite eerie": Horses race on in Australia and Asia.

"I’m not looking at that and thinking we need to look back. I just think how can we move forward, can we get better as a team?” Russell told GetBus.

"It’s quite eerie": Horses race on in Australia and Asia.

"I’m not looking at that and thinking we need to look back. I just think how can we move forward, can we get better as a team?” Russell told GetBus.

"It’s quite eerie": Horses race on in Australia and Asia.

"I’m not looking at that and thinking we need to look back. I just think how can we move forward, can we get better as a team?” Russell told GetBus.

"It’s quite eerie": Horses race on in Australia and Asia.

"I’m not looking at that and thinking we need to look back. I just think how can we move forward, can we get better as a team?” Russell told GetBus.

"It’s quite eerie": Horses race on in Australia and Asia.

"I’m not looking at that and thinking we need to look back. I just think how can we move forward, can we get better as a team?” Russell told GetBus.
Belgian federation commends Euro to keep playing

BRUSSELS: The Belgian Football Association (URB) announced on Saturday that it is working with the European Football Association Union (UEFA) to keep playing behind closed doors when it is safe to do so.

The stance taken by the union raises the prospect of leagues where games are still ongoing but players are concerned about the spread of the virus.

Some players lined up for games this week wore masks and gloves before and after the games, something the government denies.

“The fear of what is happening in the world is also present in our souls,” said Belgian international midfielder Steven Defour, who was among those who wore masks before kick-off. “For the first time in my life, I feel like this is a war,” he said.

Bermudez also said with live sport almost entirely shut down to help contain the spread of the virus, cricket fans will be able to watch a live game for the foreseeable future.

The league’s big revenue earner for the Board of Control for Cricket in India (BCCI) alone is estimated to generate more than $5 billion for the Indian economy.

MUMBAI: The Indian Premier League has been postponed until April 15, which coincides with the end of the country’s lockdown, but with the world still battling the coronavirus pandemic, the Indian cricket board is determined to hold the lucrative tournament.

The moment we get clearances from all the relevant authorities, we will decide on the date of the tournament and the new venue for it,” said the BCCI secretary, ajay Shirke.

One of the most viewed cricket tournaments, the IPL has been suspended due to the coronavirus outbreak.

Meanwhile, the 12th edition of the Indian Premier League (IPL) will kick off on April 8 and will have 10 participating teams. The matches will be played in a shortened format with 23 matches.

The opening match will be between the Delhi Capitals and Kolkata Knight Riders at the Chepauk stadium in Chennai.

The COVID-19 pandemic has disrupted the lives of millions of people around the world and has put a strain on the health care system.

Some players have even been isolated in quarantine while others have had to miss out on important matches.

The IPL, which has been played in various international locations, is set to be held in the United Arab Emirates (UAE) due to the ongoing pandemic.

The tournament is highly anticipated as it brings together some of the world’s best cricketers, including Indian captain Virat Kohli, England’s Jonny Bairstow, and Australia’s Steve Smith.

The tournament is highly anticipated as it brings together some of the world’s best cricketers, including Indian captain Virat Kohli, England’s Jonny Bairstow, and Australia’s Steve Smith.

The tournament is highly anticipated as it brings together some of the world’s best cricketers, including Indian captain Virat Kohli, England’s Jonny Bairstow, and Australia’s Steve Smith.

The tournament is highly anticipated as it brings together some of the world’s best cricketers, including Indian captain Virat Kohli, England’s Jonny Bairstow, and Australia’s Steve Smith.

The tournament is highly anticipated as it brings together some of the world’s best cricketers, including Indian captain Virat Kohli, England’s Jonny Bairstow, and Australia’s Steve Smith.

The tournament is highly anticipated as it brings together some of the world’s best cricketers, including Indian captain Virat Kohli, England’s Jonny Bairstow, and Australia’s Steve Smith.

The tournament is highly anticipated as it brings together some of the world’s best cricketers, including Indian captain Virat Kohli, England’s Jonny Bairstow, and Australia’s Steve Smith.

The tournament is highly anticipated as it brings together some of the world’s best cricketers, including Indian captain Virat Kohli, England’s Jonny Bairstow, and Australia’s Steve Smith.

The tournament is highly anticipated as it brings together some of the world’s best cricketers, including Indian captain Virat Kohli, England’s Jonny Bairstow, and Australia’s Steve Smith.

The tournament is highly anticipated as it brings together some of the world’s best cricketers, including Indian captain Virat Kohli, England’s Jonny Bairstow, and Australia’s Steve Smith.
Another former Anfield star, German's Dieter Hoeness, warned: "Morally, the scheme was not designed for players. 'That's not what the scheme was designed for. It was designed for employers to pay a percentage of furloughed employees' wages that landlords won't be anything other than disgusted at the club for doing so." Liverpool blasted over virus furlough

The Premier League has announced plans for £200 million in wage cuts, with Premier League clubs choosing to take advantage of the furlough scheme to claim 80 per cent of non-playing staff wages back off the government. “We welcomed the opportunity to discuss this and we are happy to continue talks,” added. However, the PFA warned: “It was not simplistic to criticize the millions of players for not earning to agree to a wage cut. The proposed 30 per cent salary deduction over a four-month period equivalent to over £250 million in wages is not appropriate to do so.”

Liverpool players were told they would be paid 100 per cent of their salaries to continue to work towards a solution that works for the English Football League and National League. What effect does this have on the government?— AFP

A statement from the club said: "In the context of the crisis on staff furloughing, there was a collective commitment at senior levels of the club — and off the pitch — with everyone working towards a solution that works for everyone. The club has been advised by the government to reduce the furlough non-playing staff during the coronavirus lockdown. We welcomed the opportunity to discuss this and we are happy to continue talks." However, the PFA warned: “It was not simplistic to criticize the millions of players for not earning to agree to a wage cut. The proposed 30 per cent salary deduction over a four-month period equivalent to over £250 million in wages is not appropriate to do so.”

Collymore was even more forthright, tweeting: “I can only speak for myself but I would have no problem whatsoever contributing some of my wages to help people who are fighting this on the front line and to people who have been affectively been told to go and bring in tax revenues if a 30% pay cut was introduced. The proposed 30% salary deduction over a four-month period equivalent to over £250 million in wages is not appropriate to do so.”

Contrary to the morals and values of the club I got to know. “We welcomed the opportunity to discuss this and we are happy to continue talks." However, the PFA warned: “It was not simplistic to criticize the millions of players for not earning to agree to a wage cut. The proposed 30 per cent salary deduction over a four-month period equivalent to over £250 million in wages is not appropriate to do so.”

Astonished by the news that @LFC was going to furlough staff during the coronavirus lockdown.” — AFP

Meanwhile, the Professional Footballers’ Association warned of a £200 million shortfall in British government tax revenues if a 30% pay cut was introduced. “All Premier League players want to and will play their part in making up any shortfall in government revenue if 30% pay cuts were introduced. They are also doing everything they can to reduce their personal tax liabilities even during the coronavirus lockdown.” — AFP

LONDON: Liverpool were accused of betraying their ‘moral values’ on Saturday for their move to furlough non-playing staff during the coronavirus pandemic, as Premier League stars warned of a £200 million ($245 million) shortfall in government tax revenues if a 30% pay cut was introduced.

Liverpool’s decision to furlough non-playing staff during the coronavirus lockdown during the pandemic, as Premier League stars warned of a £200 million (£245 million) shortfall in government tax revenues if a 30% pay cut was introduced.

Premier League clubs have been advisers by the government to reduce the furlough non-playing staff during the coronavirus lockdown. We welcomed the opportunity to discuss this and we are happy to continue talks." However, the PFA warned: “It was not simplistic to criticize the millions of players for not earning to agree to a wage cut. The proposed 30 per cent salary deduction over a four-month period equivalent to over £250 million in wages is not appropriate to do so.”

Collymore was even more forthright, tweeting: “I can only speak for myself but I would have no problem whatsoever contributing some of my wages to help people who are fighting this on the front line and to people who have been affectively been told to go and bring in tax revenues if a 30% pay cut was introduced. The proposed 30% salary deduction over a four-month period equivalent to over £250 million in wages is not appropriate to do so.”

Contrary to the morals and values of the club I got to know. “We welcomed the opportunity to discuss this and we are happy to continue talks." However, the PFA warned: “It was not simplistic to criticize the millions of players for not earning to agree to a wage cut. The proposed 30 per cent salary deduction over a four-month period equivalent to over £250 million in wages is not appropriate to do so.”

Astonished by the news that @LFC was going to furlough staff during the coronavirus lockdown.” — AFP

Meanwhile, the Professional Footballers’ Association warned of a £200 million shortfall in British government tax revenues if a 30% pay cut was introduced. “All Premier League players want to and will play their part in making up any shortfall in government revenue if 30% pay cuts were introduced. They are also doing everything they can to reduce their personal tax liabilities even during the coronavirus lockdown.” — AFP

LONDON: Liverpool were accused of betraying their ‘moral values’ on Saturday for their move to furlough non-playing staff during the coronavirus pandemic, as Premier League stars warned of a £200 million ($245 million) shortfall in government tax revenues if a 30% pay cut was introduced.